this collective monograph is the first data oriented empirical in depth study of the system of clitics on bosnian croatian and serbian it fills the gap between the theoretical and normative literature by including solid data on variation found in dialects and spoken language and obtained from massive corpora and speakers acceptability judgements the authors investigate three primary sources of variation inventory placement and morphonological processes a separate part of the book is dedicated to the phenomenon of clitic climbing the major challenge for any syntactic theory the theory of complexity serves as the explanation for the very diverse constraints on clitic climbing established in the empirical studies it allows to construct a series of hierarchies where the factors relevant for predicting clitic climbing interact with each other thus the study pushes our understanding of clitics away from fine grained descriptions and syntactic generalisations towards a probabilistic modelling of syntax this white paper is part of a series that promotes knowledge about language technology and its potential it addresses educators journalists politicians language communities and others the availability and use of language technology in europe varies between languages consequently the actions that are required to further support research and development of language technologies also differ for each language the required actions depend on many factors such as the complexity of a given language and the size of its community meta net a network of excellence funded by the european commission has conducted an analysis of current language resources and technologies this analysis focused on the 23 official european languages as well as other important national and regional languages in europe the results of this analysis suggest that there are many significant research gaps for each language a more detailed expert analysis and assessment of the current situation will help maximise the impact of additional research and minimize any risks meta net consists of 54 research centres from 33 countries that are working with stakeholders from commercial businesses government agencies industry research organisations software companies technology providers and european universities together they are creating a common technology vision while developing a strategic research agenda that shows how language technology applications can address any research gaps by 2020
