the first monograph on this british painter in a decade coinciding with a period of important international exhibitions constantly shifting between representation and abstraction while referencing art architecture and design and embracing the decorative british artist tim braden s work is a celebration of the act of making things his expressive and lushly seductive painting explores the in between spaces between categories and states dissolving and reassembling the world in high key colour and vivid brushstrokes to re present reality as something new and newly felt his painterly works both abstract and figurative often depict or imagine interior spaces such as homes and studios or gardens and landscapes as well as individuals working making or looking found objects and images play an important role in the practice his paintings often evolve from historical photographs book and magazine covers or anecdotes involving celebrated twentieth century artists and designers such as Wassily Kandinsky Paul Klee Sonia Delaunay and painter turned modernist architect Roberto Burle Marx Braden also plays with scale and expectation creating found abstract compositions from cropped fragments of his own figurative works that are then realized as oversized paintings on canvas or small oil sketches on card assembling a body of work produced over the last decade Tim Braden Looking and Painting is the first monograph on the artist in ten years it draws together the many themes and styles of his work and includes many paintings that have never been shown in public previously the book includes a response to Braden's work by Jennifer Higgie editor of Frieze magazine and contributions by Christopher Bedford director of the Baltimore Museum of Art and Dominic Molon curator at the Rhode Island School of Design Museum

A Passion for Painting aptly describes Roger Dale Brown and his life long fervor for artistic excellence even a casual visit to his studio will unveil his dedication and commitment for painting eye opening massive landscapes stand on his easel and adorn the walls waiting for transit to eager gallery owners and collectors from Maine to Montana looking around the viewer is drawn not so much by the detail as by the subtleness of design and colors on canvas these pages are embellished with over 200 images from the brush of one of America's premier landscape artist Roger Dale Brown although his southern heritage emerges throughout this book he equally embraces the culture and ambience from other places then interprets the scene with his signature mixture of oil paint no matter where the book is opened the journey through script and illustration are alluring the artist's ultimate aim should be to evoke the mood of a strand of time Roger reflects I use the scene as a platform to create from instead of being literal to it God made us creative if we are being literal to a scene and do not interpret with our own voice we are depriving ourselves of using the talent given to us to its greatest capability follow Roger as he travels through like exploring regions of this country and abroad the paintings he renders are tributes to his craftsmanship an artistic voice that is clearly a passion for painting
