wilson play analysis language english abstract august wilson s the piano lesson 1987 which plays in pittsburgh in the kitchen and parlor of a railroad cook s house in 1936 is the third drama of his cycle of an investigation of black americans lives in the u s after slavery boy willie travels with a friend to his uncle s a railroad cook s house where his sister berniece lives in order to sell their mutual heirloom a piano bearing carved life scenes and faces of their ancestors to buy the dead slave owner s land for farming two of their ancestors once were sold as slaves for the price of this piano and their father ultimately had been burned in a railroad car of the yellow dog for stealing the piano he conceived as family possession the almost deadly argument between brother and sister ends in not selling the piano after boy willie had to fight the ghost of the murdered slave owner and berniece saved his life by playing an exorcism song on the piano she had not dared to touch for years wilson s characters make gothic experiences at the famous railroad crossing at moorhead ms where allegedly the ghosts of the yellow dog talk back to the seeker says wining boy the musician the train passed and i started to go back up there and stand some more but something told me not to do it i walked away from there feeling like a king went on and had a stroke of luck that run on for three years 35 what do ancient african sacrificial rites have to do with american railroad lore this review paper will focus on the importance of railroad music in the piano lesson and the mystical veil covering the railroad crossing where the southern crosses the yellow dog in the dramatic vision of august wilson sandra shannon follows the playwright s path through each decade from the outset she considers how he uses poetry the blues romare bearden s art and other cultural artifacts to lead him to imagined sites of pain and resignation healing and renewal in the collective memory of black america it is in these places of defeat and victory shannon demonstrates that wilson creates drama as he excavates examines and reclaims the past although wilson diverts attention away from factual details and focuses on the human costs of family dislocation chronic unemployment or cultural alienation shannon illustrates how fully the plays are grounded in credible historical contexts from slavery and emancipation to the aftermath of world war ii the 1960s and the vietnam war moreover she identifies and analyzes the themes that recur in some plays and branch off in new directions in others including the dislocations that attended black migration to the north and communication gaps between black men and women as she examines each of the plays in wilson s dramatic history of the african american experience shannon conveys the broad range of his dramatic vision book jacket title summary field provided by blackwell north america inc all rights reserved seminar paper from the year 2020 in the subject american studies literature grade 1 7 university of duisburg essen department of anglophone studies language english abstract the piano lesson tells the story about an african american family during the 1930s that is haunted by the past and shows the bitter fate of the unchangeability of the enslavement of their ancestors wilson wrote the piano lesson as a way of investigation on how african americans should confront the painful past of slavery and discrimination this paper shall investigate the different ways of approaching history for descendants of formerly enslaved families this research addresses multiple issues how does one deal with the burdens of the past how can one use the past to make the best for the future and reconstruct cultural identity in order to answer this question i am going to interpret the different symbolic devices in the play and put them in context with the historical background i will take a closer look at how the characters deal with the past how they try to break away from the old chains of their ancestors and how they live their lives with the burdens of history i will analyze and interpret the behavior of the characters in more detail i will further argue that august wilsons uses his characters and the play itself to show that moving forward and accepting the past is necessary in order to reconstruct cultural identity
