scholarly studies consider paul's views on leadership tend to fall into one of three camps 1 the historical development view which in large measure identifies developments in church practice with developments in pauline and deutero pauline ecclesiology 2 the synchronic historical reconstruction typically making use of graeco roman social context sources or social scientific modelling focusing on a single congregation and sometimes distinguishing between the situation to which paul was responding and the pattern he sought to impose and 3 the theological hermeneutical analysis identifying paul s particular approach to power and authority often independently of any detailed reconstruction of the situations to which paul was responding andrew clarke has explored in an earlier work serve the community of the church eerdmans 2000 the distinctive local and historical situations in the various pauline communities and concluded that there is no evidence that they organised themselves according to a common set of governmental structures which clearly developed with the passage of time rather each community was influenced by its own localized social and cultural context the present project builds on this and necessarily focuses on leadership style rather than church order it seeks to recover from paul s critical responses his generic ethos of church leadership including the ideal qualities characteristics and task of leaders and the nature of appropriate interaction and engagement with church members in the light of current theoretical discussions about power and gender the study focuses particularly on paul s attitude towards hierarchy egalitarianism authority responsibility and privilege leaders in congregations and christian organizations wrestle with an unraveling of the world in which they have little experience and training while they are offered unending resources by experts on leadership some with claims to biblical blueprints the challenges seem mismatched to those methods branson and roxburgh frame the situation as one in which modernity s wager the conviction that god is not necessary for life and wisdom and meaning has defined the western imagination because churches and leaders are colonized by this ethos even when god is named and beliefs are claimed approaches to leadership are blind to god s agency branson and roxburgh approach this challenge as a work in practical theology attending to our cultural context narratives of god s disruptive initiatives in scripture and a reshaping of leadership theories with a priority on god s agency with years of experience as teachers consultants and guides they name practices which lead to more faithful participation leadership god s agency and disruption is wide ranging in cultural and biblical scholarship challenging in its engagement with numerous leadership studies and practical with its focus toward the on the ground life of churches and organizations the purpose and aim of this book is to develop an appropriate leadership model for missional churches this implies a positioning of this book within the broader theology of mission and a consensus on the theology of the missio dei originating at the 1952 conference of the international missionary council in willingen germany in this approach to the theology of mission mission is understood as the work of the trinitarian god and the church is privileged to participate in god s mission it is against this background that the growing consensus on missional ecclesiology challenges leadership models developed for a different time and a different kind of church with less or no emphasis on the missional character of the church the aim is to reflect theologically on the role of leadership in the missional church what kind of ideas about power authority and leadership are appropriate for a missional church new missional challenges demand new ideas about missional leadership church organisation and leadership reflects a theological position there is a strong relation between ecclesiology and church organisation the nature of the church provides the framework to understand the character of the church what the church is determines what the church does the church organises what it does and agrees on rules that regulate ministries and organisation issues such as the way the church organises and governs what it does and thus church leadership need to be answered against this background and understanding church polity and organisation as well as leadership must reflect the identity calling life and order of the church this book therefore addresses life in the trinity participation in the missio dei and contours of the missional church as the point of entry to develop leadership insights it contributes towards the development of an appropriate model of leadership for missional churches because although recent developments in the theology of mission comprehensively addressed the area of missional ecclesiology there is a gap in the development of a leadership model based on the concept of authority in the missional church
